Speaker of Session 24

ENERGY IMPACT OF SUPERCONDUCTORS

EKINO Toshikazu is a Professor at Hiroshima University. He received his PhD from Aoyama-Gakuin University in 1988. After working as a research associate at the Aoyama-Gakuin University, he moved to Hiroshima University in 1989. His current interest in physics is the experimental study of the electronic properties of superconductors and semiconductors by means of the low-temperature scanning tunneling microscopy / spectroscopy (STM/STS) as well as the conventional tunnel junction such as the break junction.
