Dr Minfeng (Gary) Deng is an assistant professor of statistics at the Department of Statistics, Data Science, and Epidemiology at Swinburne University of Technology in Melbourne, Australia. He is also the Chief Data Scientist at CartoVera, an Australian data analytics start-up company. He began his career as assistant professor of econometrics at Monash University, specialising in spatial econometric modelling and time series forecasting. After moving to Swinburne University of Technology, he became actively involved in the Low Carbon Living CRC. He has published in diverse areas such as spatial econometrics, tourism economics, and natural resources research.